Northern Pike Record Broken

The former record holder was Ollie J. Richardson of Alexandria, Virginia. Richardson caught an 18 lb. 5 oz. northern pike in the same location (Occoquan Reservoir) on May 3, 1974.

Steel Shot Decision Reached

According to information received from United States Fish and Wildlife Service, the long-awaited decision has been reached pertaining to the use of steel shot for waterfowl hunting in the upcoming season. The decision becomes effective for the Atlantic Flyway in 1976, in the Mississippi Flyway in 1977 and in the Central Flyway in 1978.

The areas in Virginia where steel shot ONLY will be permitted for waterfowl hunting include the following: "The city of Virginia Beach on Back Bay and its tributaries and the marshes adjacent thereto, and the land and marshes between Back Bay and the Atlantic Ocean from Sandbridge to the North Carolina line, and the shore of Long Landing River and the marshes adjacent thereto, and along the shore of Lake Tecweth and Red Wing Lake and the marshes adjacent thereto." Although the use of steel shot is mandatory in the areas described above, there is no prohibition to its use in other areas. Other states which are located in the Atlantic Flyway and are also affected by the decision include Deleware, Florida, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, New Jersey, New York, North Carolina.

A Relic Comes To Life

It hung on a pillar in the old country courthouse in White Plains, N.Y., and looked like a dingy reproduction of an early copy of the Declaration of Independence. It received scant attention and was regularly splashed by the buckets of cleaning women. But last year, when the courthouse was replaced by a new one, the county executive suggested that it might be a good idea to have the document appraised; perhaps it was valuable.

And it was, says American Heritage. According to a story in the magazine's August issue, the document is one of three known surviving copies of the Declaration of Independence printed in New York in July, 1776. It was worth about $225,000.

In early July 1776, Bristish ships anchored off Manhattan had caused the New York Provincial Congress to flee to White Plains. To press adoption of the Declaration by the wavering Congress, 500 copies were run off and posted on trees, fences and taverns in the White Plains area. A few days later on July 9, New York became the last colony to sign.
